BRITISH MAY ADOPT USE OF STEEL HELMET

Breastplate May Also be Used by Troops in France and Flanders.

London, Aug 3.—The London newspapers are urging upon the British government the advisability of adopting the steel helmet, as well as some simple form of protective breast armor, for the troops in France and Flanders. France, Russia and Germany have been experimenting along this line for some time, and France has recently definitely adopted a light steel helmet suggesting in design the head-piece worn by men-at-arms six centuries ago.

"One of the most remarkable features of this war," remarks the Times, "has been the return to older, if not to ancient, methods. The steel fort has been discredited and the earthwork justified; the strength and direction of the wind has become a leading factor once again, as it was in the days of bows and arrows, since aeroplanes are affected by the wind and gas attacks determined by it; hand grenades, bombs, and catapults have assumed real importance. Finally the question of armor for the fighting man himself, has come up for consideration."

The value of a light protective armor is attested in several recent articles in the British medical journals. Dr. Devraignes, a French army surgeon, discusses in the Lancet the result of his tests of the new French helmet and gives it his unqualified endorsement. "The soldier who wears a helmet," he says, "escaped light wounds of the head and even wounds that would in ordinary circumstances have been severe are greatly mitigated. The helmet frequently turns off the bullet, in other cases dents or stops it, while in other cases it is perforated but acts as a heavy drag upon the force of the projectile so that hair and dirt are not driven into the tissues of the head."

Dr. A. J. Hewitt, chief surgeon of the warship Paganus in her fight with the Koenigsberg, writes in the Journal of the Royal Medical Service urging the adoption of some kind of protective armor by the navy. One of the remarkable features of the wounds which came under his observation, he says, was the smaller penetrating power of the fragments of projectiles in open spaces like the upper deck. The danger one so far as life was concerned seemed to be confined to a small area around the bursting space, and though the initial velocity of the fragments seemed to be very great it diminished rapidly, perhaps owing to their irregular shape.

"One seaman," writes Dr. Hewitt, "had his right arm so shattered that complete amputation was necessary, but a fragment of the same shell hit the brass buckle of his belt, breaking it but not even bruising the abdomen. Similar fragments were also the cause of the loss of four eyes, but I am of the opinion that a pair of motor goggles would have saved all these. A case of injury to the jugular vein caused by a minute particle of shell probably could have been stopped by a linen collar."

"In my opinion a coat of light chain armor, or even leather with a pair of goggles made from toughened motor screen glass, would be invaluable to captains of destroyers, navigators, and others in exposed positions who are likely to encounter ships armed with similar guns."

Dr. Delormes, medical inspector general of the French army, believes that protective armor would cause a marked decrease in the large number of minor wounds which have serious results owing to the development of infection. "It is infection through hair, shreds of headgear, soiled bullets, irregular dressing, etc.," he says, "that makes minor head lesions so dangerous and causes a mortality varying from 15 to 57 per cent."

EMPEROR IS GODFATHER TO EVERY SEVENTH SON

Berlin, Aug. 4.—The Emperor William is probably godfather to more boys than any other person on earth, but he is as well able to stand up under the strain that he has issued an order that presently will increase the number of his proteges. The rule formerly has been that he would assume the responsibility of being godfather to a seventh son born to any family provided the boy was seventh son by one and the same marriage. Under the ruling many seventh sons have had to do without the honor, because the mother had been twice married. The emperor now has modified the rule and announced that he will become godfather to any seventh son, regardless of the number of marriages the mother has contracted, provided all seven boys are living.

NEW NAME FOR GERMAN DOGS.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—The campaign against foreign words continually takes on new and often amusing phases. The latest is a protest against giving foreign names to dogs. Even the Greek and Latin Hector and Nero are found objectionable. Proposed substitutes are Blitz (lightning), Flamme, flame, Zorn (anger), and a long list of monosyllabic adjectives, such as, Free, Fast, Strong, True and Sly. Or, says one proposal, friends of nature can use the names Stream, Water Birch, Oak, Fir, or Flower.

TROOPS NEAR DIXMUDE RAISING VEGETABLES

Belgian Lines There Stationary so Long Men are Becoming Domesticated.

Lunkirk, France, Aug. 4.—The Belgian lines along the flooded district north of Dixmude have been practically stationary for so long a time that the soldiers are beginning to assume the domestic characteristics of settlers. Chicken coops are found at frequent intervals in the clear spaces behind the trenches, and hundreds of small vegetable gardens provide variety to the daily menu of their soldier owners. Officers and men find frequent opportunity to give themselves the pleasure of an afternoon's fishing, the usual reward being a fair haul of savory carp, found in the streams and canals which empty themselves into the flooded districts.

The flooded district in front of the Belgian base position now covers about ten thousand acres, extending in a huge rectangle from north of Dixmude to a point east of Nieupoort. It is hardly correct to say that the Belgian lines have been absolutely stationary here, even for the past few months. Little by little the Belgians have pushed forward here and there, until they have established their advance trenches in most places well on the north side of the flooded area, at distances of a mile to two miles and from their base positions.

These advance positions are approached across the water barrier over narrow roadways of planking supported on piles. All the supplies for the troops in the advanced trenches are carried from the base over these crooked rickety bridges.

Although the mosquitoes, millions of them, make their presence constantly known throughout the flooded area, the sanitary conditions everywhere are excellent, and the health of the soldiers has been phenomenally good. The fear that contamination of the stagnant flood waters would inevitably lead to epidemics has been neutralized by the excellent work of the Belgian medical and sanitary officers, who with great care have removed and destroyed every possible source of contamination, particularly the dead bodies of men and horses which for a time rose frequently to the surface of the waters.

The average depth of the water in the flooded area is about four feet. It is impossible for the enemy to advance on foot through this comparatively shallow lake because of the presence everywhere of depressions, many of them abandoned cellars or huge shell holes.

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'if this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said, 'he was cured,'" writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.
